Ravensburger

Greetings Dear Readers!

Welcome to your November 2021 edition of Game Trade Magazine!

As we wind down the calendar year and temperatures begin to dip a bit, things are only heating up around the ol' GTM Bullpen!

We kick things off with an incredible cover and corresponding article for Wonder Book, the pop-up board game sensation from our friends at Dv Games!

Let me just say — I had the opportunity to see Wonder Book played at Gen Con this year, and the eye-popping elements which interact with miniatures are just delightful, I expect that this will be a holiday hit so don't wait to check it out!

Next up, WizKids provides an exclusive sneak-peek of their latest expansion to Marvel HeroClix, Empyre, and just like the storyline upon which it's based, this set includes members of the Avengers, X-Men, Fantastic Four, and more as they combat the threat of intergalactic war!

And speaking of threats from space, be sure to check out Alien — Fate of the Nostromo from Ravensburger. In this tabletop adaptation of the sci-fi horror classic, players assume the roles of the intrepid crew of the fabled ship as they search for a means to remove — or escape from — their uninvited guest.

Of course, not all is dark and terrifying! We have some wonderful gift guides from our friends at Pandasaurus and Calliope — there's definitely something for everyone for this holiday season to be found in these articles.

It's been a challenging two years and we hope everyone out there is holding fast and staying safe. In the spirit of the season, we are thankful to have you here with us and we look forward to keeping you all up to date on all the latest news and reviews from the tabletop industry!

All this and more, dear readers.

RISK IT ALL

By 2080, most of the planet is controlled by enormous, world-striding megacorporations that grasp for power and strangle humanity in their clutches. But in the darkest depths, defiance flickers. The ignored and the marginalized refuse to be ground down. They're called shadowrunners, and they risk everything...

channeling them into power;*

Pitting their consciousness against the electronic void of the Matrix;

Trading flesh for chrome to become more than human.

Will you join them, and dare to risk it all?

The Shadowrun Sixth World Beginner Box is the easiest way to dive into the intrigue, grit, and action of one of the most enduring role-playing settings of all time!

It includes everything needed for a game, including quick-start rules, character dossiers, an adventure, gear and magic cards, dice, and more!

Grab a copy, play a game, and get a look at the coming soon, all-new Shadowrun Sixth World Edition!

ORDER NOW!

Every month the Game Trade Magazine (GTM) Bullpen works tirelessly to bring the latest in game industry products and news to these pages. Each GTM is packed with hundreds and hundreds of games and related tools and accessories, so we know how easy it is to miss that new expansion or game among all the other incredible products the industry has to offer! That's why we've put together this friendly User's Guide so you can navigate GTM and find the products you want like a pro!

WHAT IS GAME TRADE MAGAZINE ANYWAY?

The serious games magazine for serious gamers, Game Trade Magazine (GTM) is the most reliable, accessible monthly periodical for the latest, most comprehensive information of product in the world of games and hobby supplies.

Packed with insider scoops, insightful reviews, designer diaries, and extensive overviews of upcoming product, plus exclusive excerpts, scenarios, and collectible inserts from your favorite games and manufacturers, there's no better monthly resource than GTM to tap into to feed your gaming needs!

GTM provides both retailer and consumer-friendly information on product from a broad spectrum of publishers and manufacturers slated for release within a two- to three- month window from the publication date. While there will be the occasional exception, if you find something you want in our January issue, you can expect to see it release in your Friendly Local Game Store (FLGS) in March or MAY.

The material in GTM is presented in a practical, handy format to empower you with the knowledge to make confident, more informed buying decisions. However, every issue of GTM is somebody's first issue, so we want to make this experience both easy and enjoyable for all.

Ready to roll? Here's what you'll discover within the pages of your friendly neighborhood Game Trade Magazine...

GAME TRADE MAGAZINE CONTENT

Each month, you will find content penned by your favorite manufacturers, tricks and tips from GTM contributors, and product reviews from gamers just like you. Here's the breakdown:

FROM THE EDITOR/FOREWORD: In every issue you will find greetings and assorted musing from one of the members of the GTM Bullpen. Every now and then we will hide an "Easter Egg" in this section so be sure to give it a read!

COVER STORY: Each month a different game or manufacturer gets top billing in GTM and this article is all about the awesome and incredible products or games you will find featured on our cover!

FEATURES: Featured articles are contributions from the manufacturer and are selected by the GTM Bullpen as especially worth your time and consideration. Oftentimes, Featured articles are about key releases or expansions from fan-favorite manufacturers and publishers.

SPOTLIGHTS: These are products that have released and are available at your FLGS or FLCS. Spotlight articles are authored by the manufacturers and often contain helpful hints, interesting back stories and more to help enhance your play experience.

PREVIEWS: These are articles directly from the manufacturers or publishers about all of the cool things they have coming down the pipeline. Products featured in these articles will often be the next HOT item to find in your FLGS or FLCS, so be sure to make a note so you won't miss out!

DESIGNER DIARIES: These articles are the ULTIMATE in the behind-the-scenes experience for games! Written by the designers themselves, Designer Diaries offer a sneak-peek into the minds of your favorite creators and are filled with insights, funny anecdotes and all the challenges to be overcome in order to make your favorite games.

REVIEWS: Industry professionals and gaming enthusiasts offer play-by-play commentary as they grab their dice, test-run a variety of board games, roleplaying systems and sourcebooks, and hobby accessories, and serve up no-nonsense, applicable advice and insight from their experience.

EXCLUSIVES: While virtually ALL of the content you'll find in GTM is exclusive to our pages, these articles are truly only found in Game Trade Magazine. Whether it be a heretofore unseen scenario for a fan-favorite game or an industry insider's tips and tricks, GTM Exclusives are a not-to-be-missed monthly resource!

GAMES SECTION: Here's a sneak peek at what's arriving — usually in 2-3 months — on your Friendly Local Game (FLGS) or Comic Store's (FLCS) shelves in the months to come, organized by manufacturer and game system. Each product listed in your GTM will include a brief description, a picture (when available!), the Alliance Game Distributors item code (for easy ordering at your FLGS!) and the price.

HOW DO I ORDER FROM GAME TRADE MAGAZINE?

Did you see dice, miniatures, or games that capture your fancy that you'd like to purchase? Of course you did! But what do you do now?

It's easy! Whether you dogear the applicable pages or you make a list - just tote along your copy of GTM, inform your FLGS (or FLCS), and they'll order it for you. It's really that simple!

DVG 9042..... $79.99 | Available Now!

Wonder Book, the first interactive pop-up game, is bound to find its way under the Christmas Tree. This cooperative and narrative-driven game has been one of the most acclaimed novelties at Gen Con 2021, and it received enthusiastic comments by gamers and reviewers all over the world.

The stunning pop-up board is filled with eye popping 3D elements which will interact with the miniatures of the characters, making players feel like they're walking for real through lights and shadows of the wondrous realm of Oniria.

Oniria is a majestic world divided into two kingdoms: the bright Upperworld and the dark Underworld. The Upperworld is a flourishing land, scorched by the sun and populated by the illuminated dragons, who dance free in the sky and breathe magic to live. The Underworld is a tangle of pitch-black subterranean caves, crawling with stealthy, dark creatures. A hostile place for unwary explorers.

But there was a time when Oniria was an idyllic paradise, where dragons lived together in peace. A tumultuous conflict shook the entire realm, and the fate of Oniria and the human world are now colliding.

A dragon was spotted in our world, flying over an old, abandoned tower lost in the woods. It appeared in a flash of supernatural light, then vanished.

Only a few saw the dragon. Most did not believe their eyes. However, a handful of chosen ones did. They are the only ones that are naively curious and brave enough at the same time. But this time the heroes are not the usual warriors and wizards of fantasy, but four smart kids who will face an adventure that is bigger than them.

Tina, Sid, Ken, and Lara saw the dragon and could not believe their eyes. Was the dragon real? Are there more? Where did it come from?

These four friends go to the same school, and they share a common curiosity and desire to explore as well as a fascination for all things fantasy. They are convinced that the apparition was not just a hallucination, and their excitement cannot be contained: the kids are ready to explore the quiet tower, whose secret has been hidden for centuries, protected by fears and legends.

This secret is the Wonder Book: an antique book, lying in the dust. Its time-worn pages are held in place by a wrinkled leather cover, on which is embedded a gold filigree depicting a glorious tree with branches that look like a monster's claws. Could the Wonder Book be a portal to the world of Oniria?

How does the story go on? Join this adventure and it will be up to you to decide. Oniria's destiny is now in your hands!

Now let's go back to the gaming table, discovering the storyline over six chapters and revealing the astonishing twists of the 3D game board. At the beginning, I encourage you to dump game components on the table and just start playing. The beauty of the Wonder Book is the chapter cards drive the rules, so they are not overly complex. So go ahead and read the first card of chapter 1, following the directions, then turning it over, and following those directions. Rinse and repeat, and a few cards in you'll magically have the game set up, then you can reference the rulebook as needed.

The basic mechanics are easy to grasp, but the game keeps changing as each scenario offers different things to do. You will find yourself exploring, fighting some weird creatures, solving riddles, playing little minigames, taking important decisions...

While the game is simple enough for young children, it contains a deep strategy that adult gamers will appreciate, creating the perfect family game but also a game you can take to your friends' game night; the full campaign is long, but you can easily save the game and keep playing another night.

also play again using an entirely different character. And, on top of that, you might discover 6 different endings: this is not a one-shot experience, and you are encouraged to replay the game and try to get a perfect score.

The hidden pop-up tricks of the specially engineered book combined with the branching storyline offer an original and ever-changing game experience. The game has a campaign mode and all the decisions matter on further development of the story.

It also includes a large envelope that looks like a treasure chest. Whatever you do, (DON'T OPEN IT!) Fight the urge. It's so much better as a surprise. (HEY YOU! STOP LOOKING! I TOLD YOU NOT TO OPEN THE TREASURE CHEST!)

There are things hidden all over the Wonder Book, with surprise enemies and surprise events, and hidden landscapes for certain chapters. In addition, there's an A+ mode for when you finish and want to play through again, this time with more difficulty, and you can even play the same character making different decisions and choosing different upgrades when you level-up. Of course, you can

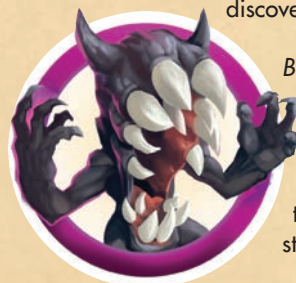

Wonder Book was designed by two young and eclectic talents in the contemporary game design field, Martino Chiacchiera (Deckscape, Witchstone) and Michele Piccolini, and it was illustrated by one of the most popular illustrators in the board games industry, Miguel Coimbra (7 Wonders, Small World).

Moreover, Dario Cestaro is considered one of the most talented paper designers; nowadays he has published around seventy pop-up books and pop-up toys - google his name to discover some amazing works.

There are many surprises in the Wonder Book we don't wish to spoil, but we can assure you'll frequently find yourself open-mouthed! (Remember I told you NOT to look in the treasure chest!).

Wonder Book will be available for the holidays at your friendly local game store — join the adventure!

WZK 84799 $9.99 | Available Now!

For the first time in over 7 years, the Avengers, Fantastic Four, X-Men, Guardians of the Galaxy and more are all featured in this upcoming 5-figure booster HeroClix release! Marvel HeroClix: Avengers Fantastic Four Empyre, or just Empyre for short, has all corners of the Marvel universe are represented including brand-new versions of fan-favorite characters as well as exciting never-before-seen characters.

In Marvel's earth-shattering Empyre event, the Avengers and Fantastic Four as well as the Kree and Skrull alliance led by Hunking team up to fight against the Cotati Empyre.

Take a look at these exclusive new previews of some of the characters and returning gameplay mechanics Empyre has to offer.

First preview is Kree Soldier, which is a Common "generic" in the Empyre. Kree Soldier has no special powers or traits, but at 20 points it is a Sidekick and has the S.H.I.E.L.D. team ability. It can be generated by a few characters in the set including Hunking and Mar-Vell (more on him later) and synergizes well with all of the other Captain/Sidekick/Ally characters released over the last few sets.

Next up is Loki (sometimes called Ikol) who is an Uncommon in Empyre. He has a trait with the Rally mechanic first introduced in X-Men Rise and Fall but he has it with all attack rolls with a finalized result of a 2 instead of just 5 for opposing attack rolls. He can remove a rally die from his card to place himself within 2 squares and then generate another copy of himself on click #9 in the square he was previously in. That Loki can't use Rally, but can be used for effects like Mastermind and has the Mystics team ability even if an opponent decides to attack him. Plenty of Probability Control and the possibility of dealing damage with Blade/Claws/Fangs makes this Loki an interesting character at only 60 points.

Next, representing the Skulls as a Rare in the set is a Super Skrull composed of X-Men characters known as RI'nnd. RI'nnd is an Ally which allows him to be placed on your sideline and give friendly Captains/Sidekicks +1 attack when attacking one or more characters with the X-Men keyword. X-Men are always very popular teams in HeroClix, and now is no exception with the release of both the X-Men House of X and X-Men Rise and Fall sets in 2021 and X-Men being featured in Empyre as well. Be sure to be on the lookout for RI'nnd for any of your Captain/Sidekick teams. For the rest of his dial, it may only look like it has a few standard powers, but he also a trait that allows him to choose two powers from a list on his card to use until you choose again. Some of those powers are very strong movement like Charge and Running Shot, attacking like Blades/Claws/Fangs and Penetrating/Psychic Blast, and defensive powers like Energy Shield/Deflection and Super Senses, which all can be helpful in a variety of situations. On top of the X-Men and Skrull team abilities, RI'nnd is going to be difficult to take down.

Finally, we have Mar-Vell as a Super Rare in Empyre. He is also a Captain which ties into his first trait "The Kree-Skrull War". This trait allows him to choose an opposing character within range that can't use Super Senses or Shape Change when attacked by Mar-Vell and other Sidekicks during the turn which is very useful in this set which is full of both of those powers. His next trait gives him another chance before he is KO'd. When he would be KO'd for the first time, instead turn him back to click #8, roll a d6, and heal a number of clicks depending on the point value he began the game, either 125 for the full d6 result or 75 for half the d6 result. His special damage power gives him Leadership, and when he is successful he can instead generate a Kree Soldier on click #1. As mentioned before, the Kree Soldier is a Sidekick who works with Mar-Vell's trait as well as an entire extra figure that your team can get onto the board for free. Mar-Vell is also collector number 059a, so be on the lookout for a Prime version in the set!

Empyre is sure to be the most ambitious HeroClix set of the year. Alongside the booster brick, there is plenty of exciting content for new fans like the miniatures game with map tiles and special scenarios. Longtime fans will have access to brand-new Legacy cards bringing HeroClix from the past into Modern Age with updated powers and abilities. Be on the lookout for more Empyre previews coming soon along with the pre-release and set release coming up this Fall!

PAT 7485 $14.99 | Available Now!

If you look down — further and further until you're looking at the very ground beneath your feet — you'll see the world of Trailz. The little shrooms with their little packs are out looking for adventure, and the very hungry slugs are looking for something too — a snack!

The life of a shroom can be hard. Shrooms are fairly small, and while they would never hurt a fly, that doesn't seem to stop other creatures from eating a shroom if they bump into one another on a crowded mycelium path. In Trailz those creatures are the slugs, who follow their own paths of slime looking for shrooms to munch on.

With backpacks full of hopes, dreams, and plenty of snacks, the little shrooms are always on the go. They can't move very fast — little legs and all — but what they lack in speed they make up for in determination. A shroom on a mission isn't known for giving up easily.

The ground is vast, seemingly never-ending, but the shrooms are sure that somewhere down the road is the perfect place to call home. That's what all the hope they carry is for after all. They stay focused on their goal, always moving forward and never going back. The only time they ever go back to where they began is if they encounter a slug, who startles them back to the start. When faced with a slug who could blame shrooms for needing to start over?

While quite similar to each other, shrooms tend to stay away from other shrooms. You see, shrooms are awfully shy, and if they come face to face with another shroom on their journey they just don't know what to say.

Besides, the natural world is a constant competition for resources, so in the world of Trailz it's every shroom for themselves. All the shrooms can hope to do is avoid the slugs and make their way to their destination as quickly as they can! Trailz is down to earth and all about survival!

In the strategy game Trailz, each player controls a set of shrooms and slugs, either orange or green, with the objective of being the first player to get a shroom across to the other side of the board. Slugs can move in all directions along their slime paths, and can eat enemy shrooms and slugs if they catch up to them on the board. Shrooms can only move forward on the board and can't eat any other pieces, so if they run into another shroom on the board they will get stuck.

Any eaten pieces are returned to the players and can be reintroduced to the board on a player's turn instead of a moving a piece already in play.

Trailz is a great introductory strategy game for 2 players, ages 7 and up. Get yours today from PlayMonster or participating retailers.

HOISTING ANCHOR AND GETTING STARTED IN

by Mitch Reed

Now that conventions are making an appearance again it is time for those who were interested in Oak & Iron to start collecting their ships and getting them to a nearby table. Over the last few months gaming admirals have been playing either online or when they get a chance versus a live opponent and many fans of the game have been tinkering with their lists and adjusting how they plan to play the game in the future. Since so few of us have had very much experience in live play, now is a perfect time for those who have yet played the game to get into it.

You will need the core box to play the game and if you plan to provide forces for another player then two core boxes will be needed. This is for the cards needed to play more so than the measuring tools, dice and tokens used to play the game. Getting two boxed also gives you a whopping 12 ships to start play with which should make for some great games. You can also get the cards from the core box individually via pdf delivery which means you will have to get them printed.

Another recommended purchase would be a nice playmat for the game. One beautiful Caribbean colored mat around 4'x4' is all you will need to play the game in any of three sizes of games that are recommended to play the game. Two other purchases I would recommend is getting extra dice and picking up the expansion deck that are also available for the game. The expansion deck gives you some neat upgrades and some generic admirals that will make your fleet building so much easier. As for the dice, all gamers know you can never have enough.

One thing that will be apparent is that Oak & Iron is easy to collect and play. The ships can be used for any of the five factions in the game and you do not have to get any terrain since the core box has all you will need. You will also find that the learning curve to play the game is short however, to master the game you will need to put in some work and tinker with your lists as you grow into the game.

Once you have your "sea legs" I would really recommend looking into expanding your fleet. I am a huge fan of battles between the big ships of the line. For this getting the box sets that give you the 1st through 6th rate ships is a must. If you want to play smaller point totals and recreate the skirmishes of some of the famous characters of the era, the other three box sets may be for you which contain some of the smaller and sleeker ships of the period.

Players new to the game should also not feel rushed to paint their ships to start playing, the ships come with a plastic brown hull and white sails that are simple to build and you can start playing right away. I have found that painted ships do roll better in games.

Once you have collected all the ships you desire to play the next job is finding an opponent and playing the game. As stated, before the game is easy to learn and really recreates the naval action of period very well. I have found that during each game I learned a lot on which tactics work best and what the ships in my fleet can do. I have such a great time playing Oak & Iron and I am sure you will too.

For those of you who do not remember what was in the box sets, here is a brief rundown of them.

Core Box: All you need to play the game, six ships, cards, templates and dice. You need this box to play the game.

The rest of the boxes contain ships to grow your collection and have the models, bases and cards for all the ships in the box.

Blackbeard's Revenge: This contains the Revenge and Queen Anne's Revenge, two ships made famous by Blackbeard

Gentlemen of Fortune: Petit Frigate, Corvette and Sloop. For those who like the smaller and faster ships.

Merchant Men: Light Galleon, Fluyt and Brigantine. These ships usually carry the plunder you are searching for.

Men of War: 4th Rate Ship of Line, 5th Rate Frigate and the 6th Rate Frigate. These ships will be the ones you will get a lot of use out of, fast and strong and you can get a bunch of these ships on your list for most games.

Ships of the Line: 1st Rate Ship of Line, 2nd Rate Ship of Line and the 3rd Rate Ship of Line. These are the big ships that will make up your battle line as you bring your ships alongside those of your enemy.

HOLIDAY GIFT GUIDE

It's that time of the year again: everyone is scrambling for gifts, and board game enthusiasts are trying to find just the right games for everyone on their list. At least, that's my usual plan for the holiday season. After all, great games create new lifelong new board gamers, right? The least I can do is make that search a little bit easier, by providing six incredible titles that retail for $20, can be taught in 5-10 minutes, play in under an hour, and literally fit in a stocking. What more could you ask for? Whether it's gamers, co-workers, grandma, or all the kids, Calliope Games has something for everyone on your list!

FOR THOSE WHO LIKE CLASSIC CARD GAMES WITH A TWIST 12 Days (CLP 112)

This delightful trick-taking card game designed by James Ernest and Mike Selinker puts people instantly in the holiday spirit! Each round of the game represents a different Day in the classic carol The 12 Days of Christmas, and the 80 gift cards contain all of the gifts in the song, so there are exactly 12 drummers drumming, 11 pipers piping, and so on, all the way down to 1 partridge in a pear tree. Each round, players pass a Gift card to another player, and then choose a card to play. Everyone reveals their card at the same time. The card with the lowest value wins the Day, which is then scored. Also shuffled into the game are Santa and Mrs. Claus, who automatically win the Day, but must gift the card to another player. At the end of the game, the player with the highest combined value in Day cards and sets of Gift cards wins! This game is perfect for festive family gatherings for adults familiar with classic card games like Heart and Rummy.

FOR THOSE WHO ENJOY STRETCHING THE TRUTH A BIT Thieves! (CLP 111)

In this sneaky card game, players as a band of crooks who just committed a bank robbery, and now must evade the authorities and get away with the most loot. Players play Loot cards either face down in front of them, or face up in front of another player. Once enough Police cards are played, the player with the most loot is busted and loses everything! (You see why you might want to play a card in front of someone else?) Lastly, there are Thief cards that let you perform special actions like swapping cards and removing Police cards. The player with the most loot at the end wins! This is a gateway game meant to introduce non-gamers to bluffing games, and since there is no reading involved and it plays in about 20 minutes, it also makes a great game for kids.

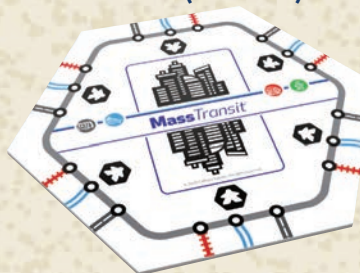

FOR COLLECTORS, AND THOSE WHO ENJOY SOMETHING FANCY Roll For It! Deluxe Edition (CLP 127)

After the success of the original Roll For It!, Calliope Games heard the call of those who wanted the entire experience in one box; the game collectors who wanted something beautiful on a shelf and on a table. Enter Roll For It! Deluxe Edition, with 60 cards featuring gorgeous Calliope artwork and characters, and 8 sets of dice so that the entire family can join in the fun. The Deluxe edition takes the original game and elevates not just the artwork, but also the embossed tin it comes in! The Deluxe Edition contains not only the contents of both the Red and Purple editions, but also a luxurious flocked interior and an embroidered dice bag, making it the ultimate in affordable and portable opulence.

FOR THOSE WHO PREFER WORKING TOGETHER Mass Transit (CLP 141)

Mass Transit is Calliope's very first cooperative game, and our first solo game! Players work together playing cards to get the 6 commuter meeples from their jobs in the Big City to their homes in the suburbs by playing Bus, Ferry, and Train cards, all while avoiding dead ends, traffic, all while contending with limited communication! This brisk, light game plays in 20 minutes with up to 6 players and received quite a bit of attention after being showcased at AwSHUX in April. Mass Transit packs nail-biting choices with quick gameplay in an easy-to-understand package that fits in your pocket; it is truly the ultimate travel game! Enjoy the cooperative transportation phenomenon that sold out its first printing in record time.

FOR THOSE WHO FRAME COMPLETED PUZZLES Enchanted Plumes (CLP 142)

Enchanted Plumes is a visually stunning card game for 2-6 players where you compete to build the highest valued peacock plumage and attract the attention of the peahen. The entire game consists of 100 feather cards in 10 colors with values 0-9, and you'll play those cards in descending triangular rows, only using the colors from the cards of the previous row, and never going back up once you've started the next row. The top row of cards is negative, and all subsequent rows are positive. At the end of your turn, you have the choice to swap cards from your hand with cards in the center of the table, but be careful not to give an opponent a card they might need! It's the perfect game for date night, or family game night: simple to learn, but challenging to master, and its small box provides a full table's worth of enjoyment!

Every game in this holiday gift guide retails for $20 and is small enough to take anywhere. Whether cooperative or competitive, small group or large, new or experienced, Calliope Games has something for everyone, and a table big enough to welcome them.

FATE OF THE NOSTROMO

TM & © 20th Century Studios

ALIEN: FATE OF THE NOSTROMO

RVN 60001932..... PI | Available Q4 2021!

A perfect organism, ending the crew members of the commercial starship Nostromo one by one. Players can now recreate the tension of the classic 1979 thriller "Alien" on their tabletop! In ALIEN: Fate of the Nostromo by Ravensburger, players take on the role of one of the Nostromo's crew members and work together to move through the ship, gather supplies, and craft items while evading the Alien. To win, they'll need to complete all starting objectives plus one final mission before their morale is completely depleted, or the Nostromo self-destructs.

RECREATING A THRILLER IN TABLETOP

In the time since its release, "Alien" has achieved sci-fi horror classic status with good reason. Its themes still resonate with audiences, and its utilitarian aesthetic has achieved a timelessness that other futuristic films have not. The Alien's appearance and speed are uniquely spine-chilling, providing plenty of jump-scares throughout the film. It was this combination of attributes that allowed Ravensburger to identify a great opportunity to make a game where players could work toward a common goal while recreating a stressful environment. The objectives ensure that players move across the ship while knowing that the Alien could be just beyond the next bulkhead.

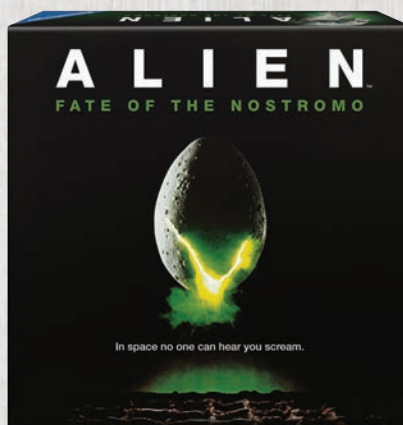

IMMERSIVE GAMEPLAY

ALIEN: Fate of the Nostromo provides an immersive experience by allowing players to take on the role of one of the Nostromo's crew members — Brett, Dallas, Ripley, Lambert, or Parker. While some crew members like Ripley are more popular among fans of the film, each character is well-balanced. If they have fewer actions that they can take, their special ability makes up for this. For example, Brett has the fewest number of actions, but his special ability lets him reduce the cost of crafting items, and he does not have to spend an action to craft them.

One of the biggest victories in this game's design is that while it offers plenty of strategy, players still feel on edge while taking their turn. There are two phases in a player's turn: The Crew Action Phase, and the Encounter Phase. During the Crew Action Phase, players move through the Nostromo, gather supplies, and craft or use items. During the Encounter Phase, players draw an Encounter card. Encounter cards can move the Alien closer to crew members and place more "concealed" tokens on the board. These concealed tokens are flipped over when a crew member enters a room with them and may result in a surprise encounter.

As the crew moves around the ship to complete objectives, they'll need to consider their actions carefully. The Alien will always take the shortest route to the nearest player as it moves during the Encounter Phase. Players must be mindful of which actions will be most effective during their turn, and what routes will be most efficient as they move around the ship. In addition, as the game goes on, more Encounter tokens are placed, which makes an encounter more likely. This makes it more challenging to choose a completely "safe" location, so working together to quickly achieve starting objectives before crew morale is completely depleted will be paramount.

ALIEN: Fate of the Nostromo has a great variety of items that players can use to their advantage, like Grapple Gun, Flashlight, and even a Cat Carrier to capture Jonesy! While all are useful, it helps to plan ahead and decide which items will be most beneficial in completing objectives. It's important to craft these as soon as possible, so players will need to remember to pick up scrap during their turn. Some items prevent the crew from losing morale too quickly and are great to have on hand. The Electric Prod reduces morale lost if players encounter the Alien, and it does not cost an action to use. While the Incinerator costs the most scrap to craft, for the cost of one action, it will send the Alien back to its nest if it is within three spaces of the player.

With ten different starting objectives and five final missions, ALIEN: Fate of the Nostromo has great replay value as no two games will be the same. In addition, once players have figured out different strategies to achieve victory, they can add Ash to create a more challenging game. Ash makes it more difficult to gather the scrap necessary to craft items and will even reduce morale if he is unable to take scrap from any crew he encounters. While this game supports up to five players, it is also a great one-player experience, as a single player steps into Ripley's shoes and takes on the Alien on their own.

ALIEN: Fate of the Nostromo is intended for ages ten and up and plays in 45 minutes to an hour. Look for it at your friendly local game store soon!

WARPAINTS AIR: How It All Started

WARPAINTS AIR: COMPLETE SET

TAP AW8003..... $375.00 | Available November 2021!

My love affair of The Army Painter Warpaints began long before I ever became officially involved with the company. As a former commission painter and competitive painter, I put my trust in the Warpaints range due to their high-quality heavy pigmentation, choice colour selection, and affordable pricing. So, when I first had the opportunity to meet with Bo Penstoft and Jonas Færing, founders of the company, at the 2017 GAMA Expo the first question I asked them was, "When is The Army Painter going to make airbrush paints?"

Almost three years ago, I had the privilege to begin the process of developing the Warpaints Air range. It all began with the Airbrush Medium. This was Bo's way of testing the paint-coloured waters, so-to-speak. The goal was to develop a 2-in-1 airbrush thinner and flow improver which fits with The Army Painter's ethos to help gamers and painters save time and simplify their painting processes. It was also created to identify a starting formulation for what would eventually become the broader Warpaints Air range — and our customers loved it!

Before we went straight to mixing our proprietary Airbrush Medium with Warpaints, there was still a lot more work to do. Bo tasked us with developing a unique concept, something that not only differentiated our airbrush paints from the rest, but also saved time and simplified the technique for our customers (noticing a theme?). So, I sat down with Thomas Bærensten, our head Studio Painter and most advanced and accomplished painter at the company, and we broke down how we used the airbrush as a tool to paint both award-winning pieces (in Thomas' case) and fast but effective tabletop quality armies (in my case). We identified that the key similarity between our styles of painting was the application of zenithal highlights.

A zenithal highlight is the application of layers from dark to light in a top-down fashion. This replicates a realistic gradation of colour and shade that is incredibly simple to execute.

This led us to develop pre-designed groups of paints, or Colour Triads. Colour triads are a common tool used in many different industries from interior design, manufacturing, and miniature painting! The thing is, it makes perfect sense when used in combination with an airbrush.

Thomas and I then identified 34 of our best-selling colours from our existing Warpaints range and began developing the corresponding colours to create a group of three colours — a Colour Triad. Let's use Daemonic Yellow, which is a customer favorite, as an example: Daemonic Yellow is the Mid Tone for the triad, which has a darker Base Tone (IncurSION Orange), and a brighter High Tone for highlighting (Imp Yellow). To paint a yellow miniature, you simply apply a base coat of IncurSION Orange, the first zenithal highlight of Daemonic Yellow, and finish it off with an extreme highlight of Imp Yellow. It's that easy!

Highlight

Base

Colour Triads are just the beginning of the Warpaints Air ease-of-use story. Historically, other "airbrush ready" paints still require additional thinning and mixing before use. Warpaints Air are truly ready-to-use right out of the bottle. Just shake, unscrew the lid, pour into your airbrush reservoir, and you are ready to start spraying!

Our team of painters and paint masters worked tirelessly to refine each colour with the perfect blend of thinners and medium so that each Warpaint Air colour offered pristine coverage right out of the bottle. This meant that each colour required its own unique formulation. An extensive extra step, but one that will pay off in dividends for experienced painters and hobbyists who are new to the airbrush technique alike!

Additionally, for the first time ever we have pre-loaded every bottle of Warpaints Air with two of our high-grade stainless steel, rust-proof Mixing Balls. This will make mixing these paints even easier, saving you more time at the hobby desk (and leaving your dominant hand fresh for all that airbrushing you're going to be doing!)

The packaging of each of the Warpaints Air paint boxes will also be the first to feature our new Cradle 2 Cradle sustainable packaging as part of our continued effort to reduce the impact our products have on the environment.

Today, I still trust The Army Painter Warpaints due to their high-quality heavy pigmentation, choice colour selection, and affordable pricing. Now, thanks to the Colour Triads, airbrush-ready formulation, and pre-loaded Mixing Balls — you can trust the Warpaints Air range because we took the guesswork out of the equation making airbrush painting simpler and more fun for painters of all skill levels.

The standalone integrated successor to Nova Lux. The universe has all but collapsed as the natural law of entropy and the interference of biological life have decimated the stars. In the face of imminent annihilation, a federation of orphaned alien species refused to give up hope. They managed to build an enclosed biosphere colony around one of the last remaining stars repurposing the ingredients for life and hydrogen from the star itself before all was lost. As the rest of the universe decayed around them, they looked into the dark abyss and saw a canvas. In Impendium, you will pick up immediately after the events of Nova Lux, playing as one of the many ambitious factions amongst the newly founded federation.

TALES OF BARBEARIA

From the snowy peaks, to the volcanic wastelands, BarBEARia's villages are filled with warrior bears in competing villages. Their goal is to have their praises sung loud and long thanks to their mighty deeds. At the very least, they want to outshine the other villages. But winter is long and cold and sleepy, so every village must strive to do their BEARy best before then! Roll dice to determine your BEAR allotment. Place them on your Village Board behind your unique village screen. Level up on the victory track when you send your bears adventuring, raid a neighBEAR's village, or gather resources. At the end of autumn, the player with the most Glory gains bragging rights, and sweet honeycomb dreams. Scheduled to ship in October 2021.

THE CANDY HORDE EXPANSION

Foul pollution blights the beautiful lands of BarBEARia; Impossibly sticky and unnaturally sweet, this darkness corrupts anything it comes in contact with. The once lush landscapes are becoming tainted with an irresistibly delicious slime, and bears who fall to temptation are transformed into ravenous abominations. The Unbearable Expansion adds two new features to Tales of BarBEARia gameplay: The Horde - Rampaging bears who have become mutated by the darkest magic in the known universe - candy! These mindless monstrosities have begun invading the realms of BarBEARia, governed only by their insatiable cravings. Heroes - Powerful new allies you can recruit for battle. As grizzled veterans of war and adventures, these heroic bears are more powerful than your average barBEARian. Scheduled to ship in October 2021.

In the backwaters of the vast Imperium of humanity lies the hostile desert world of Arrakis. It is a deadly place, where no drop of rain falls and the people live a sparse existence in the baking cities of the northern pole. But Arrakis is the most important planet in the entire universe, for it is only here that you can find the spice melange. The spice is everything. To some, it is a way to extend life, to others a way to see into the future. It is the key to wealth and power in the Imperium, and many of the noble Houses will stop at nothing to control it in any way they can. The cities of Arrakeen and Carthage are full of agents and spies, all looking to gain advantage for their faction, and ready to kill to maintain the power of their masters. PARANOIA RISING GAMES

VIGILANTE

The city is under siege after the prisoners of East Side Penitentiary gained powerful abilities and escaped. Heroes must rise up, allying with the Agency to fight crime and return order to the streets. In Vigilante, players take control of a team of heroes to complete their secret missions. These missions will place them on opposing teams - good, neutral, or evil! With nearly 200 unique cards, including different scenarios and missions, Vigilante provides a high level of replayability and some incredible art. Will you quell the flames of an uprising, or will you fan the flames and join the chaos? Scheduled to ship in February 2022.

BONFIRE: TREES & CREATURES

On Asperia, every day is unique and brings surprising events that constantly change the life and work of the gnomefolk. Now ancient trees have been reinvigorated by the guardians, while the gnomes seek the help of mysterious and mighty creatures. In Bonfire: Trees & Creatures, the story continues, with players being able to expand the base game with three modules that can be combined with one another, in addition to being able to add a fifth player. Players can expand their city by acquiring and placing tree tiles above their path tiles, unlocking useful bonuses and new ways to score at the end of the game. Scheduled to ship in October 2021.

DEADLY DINNER: RED CARPET IN RUINS

An interactive crime/thriller experience for friends & foes! Hollywood 1959: A famous actor is killed on the set with his own Oscar. 6 to 8 suspects try together to expose the murderer among you. Role distribution can be sent online ahead of the game. Eight suspects. One dinner. A puzzling social experiment. As a host, you invite your guests to a dinner, during which you solve a mysterious death. But be careful: one of you is the murderer! In order to solve the case, you have to uncover shady machinations and dark secrets as well as carefully challenge the other players. This is the only way to solve the crime! Scheduled to ship in December 2021.

DEADLY DINNER: THE LAST ROSE

The second instalment of the 'Deadly Dinner' series. An interactive crime/thriller experience for friends & foes! Each player takes on a role. Role distribution can be sent online ahead of the game. Seven suspects. One dinner. A puzzling social experiment. Find the murderer among your group. As a host, you invite your guests to a dinner, during which you solve a mysterious death. But be careful: one of you is the murderer! In order to solve the case, you have to uncover shady machinations and dark secrets as well as carefully challenge the other players. This is the only way to solve the crime! Can you find out what happened? And can you solve the murder case? Scheduled to ship in December 2021.

FIRE & STONE

Fire & Stone by designer of Carcassonne, Klaus Jergen Wrede, is set at the dawn of humankind. Lead a small tribe of hunter-gatherers from the African continent to explore the rest of the world over 3 distinct eras, discovering resources, learning new skills, and establishing key settlements along the way. This engaging strategy game uses a randomized tile-placement mechanic to change the landscape and provide a unique experience each time it is played. Scheduled to ship in November 2021.

HAPPY HOPPING

What a hustle and bustle! In Happy Hopping, the frogs jump into the ponds left and right. Everyone is on the hunt for colorful mosquitoes. Whose frogs can catch the most of them? Over the course of eight rounds, the players try to complete tasks to collect chips. There are speed rounds, in which you need to be quicker than the other players, and normal rounds, in which all frogs may perform one jump. If the goal of a round is met, players gain frog chips with the fastest players gaining a ladybug chip on top. They show mosquitoes in different colors. After the last round, a scoring tile determines which mosquito color scores points. Scheduled to ship in November 2021.

MICROMACRO: CRIME CITY - FULL HOUSE

Welcome to Crime City - a city with crime lurking around every corner. Deadly secrets, sneaky robberies and cold-blooded murders are commonplace around here. Full House is the second part of the Micromacro: Crime City series. A new city map with 16 brand new crime cases awaits you. This is a stand-alone game. The 16 cases included here can be played without having played the original game. Micromacro is a cooperative detective game. A keen eye is equally as important as clever deduction - this is real detective work! Scheduled to ship in October 2021.

BUBBLE TROUBLE

In Bubble Trouble, all players work together to try to bring as many sea creatures as possible back to the reef. To achieve this, they have to skillfully throw bubbles from the reef towards the sea creatures. All animals that are caught by a bubble drift one step closer to the reef; all animals not caught by a bubble swim further towards the shark. Once no more animals are in the playing area, the game ends and the players receive points for all the animals they rescued. Scheduled to ship in November 2021.

MIDNIGHT MARKET

The Midnight Market is finally taking place again! But only adult wizards and ghosts are allowed to visit. Bad luck for the students from the nearby school for magic because it is the only place to buy wonderful delicacies and magical pets. You can even find the rare Vanishing Stars there. Ghosts use them to make themselves invisible. 'I would love to make myself invisible too!', says Anna. Amir has an ingenious idea: We could just dress as ghosts to sneak onto the market and mingle with the visitors! The others think it is a great plan. This way, we won't stand out. Maybe we can get hold of these Vanishing Stars? We can pull a lot of pranks with those! The students create teams of four and off they go. Scheduled to ship in November 2021.

UNDO: LONG LIVE THE KING

Despite the sumptuous dishes, tension fills the air of the great hall. Numerous guests had accepted the invitation to the funeral service for the late queen, and now await the mourning king's eulogy. After all, he is now without an heir to the throne and many of those present sense an opportunity for themselves. When the king finally rises, there is a hushed silence. He raises his goblet and lets his keen gaze wander from face to face. Few of you are here to mourn my beloved wife with me, the king begins, and takes a sip from the goblet. Suddenly he begins to cough and puts his hand to his throat. He collapses, knocking food from the table. A murmur goes through the crowd as orders are shouted frantically for aid. The king is carried out of the hall in a hurry, and minutes of dismay pass. Then the personal doctor emerges and announces to all, 'The king is dead!' Scheduled to ship in December 2021.

VINYL: MASTERS OF METAL

Masters of Metal is a Vinyl edition that expands on the core mechanisms of Vinyl with the introduction of memorabilia. Players will collect albums from six Metal bands, with attributes such as live recording or picture disc. In addition to collecting albums, players may also extend their collections with memorabilia such as concert tickets, posters, or t-shirts. As the collection gets larger, the player may retire the albums and memorabilia from a single band to earn a Collection Reward Token. Scheduled to ship in January 2022.

VINYL: TOTALLY AWESOME 80S

The Totally Awesome 80's edition features popular genres present during the great decade - the 80's. The edition also adds a new mechanism to the game - trading at the Trade Counter. Players can trade unwanted or low-value records to collect a desired and higher-valued album. Collections max out at four. To earn a Collection Reward Token, the players have to meet a minimum quality level and maintain a specific number of matched attributes across all of the albums in the collection. Scheduled to ship in January 2022.

HOSTAGE NEGOTIATOR: ABDUCTOR PACK 10

Inc0gn1t0 is a threat unlike any you've faced. Their identity and location are unknown, as are their demands. What is known is that they've hacked into networks across the city, and we've found traces of a bomb that has some sort of remote access code. Can you stop them in time? In this new expansion pack for Hostage Negotiator, you must deal with Inc0gn1t0's reign of terror across the city while trying to decrypt the code for the bomb. The more hostages you save the more time you buy for the decryption, but is it enough? This Abductor pack is a 15-card expansion compatible with both Hostage Negotiator and Hostage Negotiator: Crime Wave.

JUIBLEX, DEMON LORD OF SLIME AND OOZE

Juiblex called the Faceless Lord and the Oozing Hunger in ancient grimoires. Juiblex is demon lord of slime and ooze, a noxious creature that doesn't care about the plots and schemes of others of its kind. It exists only to consume, digesting and transforming living matter into more of itself. A true horror, Juiblex is a mass of bubbling slime, swirling black and green, with glaring red eyes floating and shifting within it. It can rise up like a 20-foot hill, lashing out with dripping pseudopods to drag victims into its bulk. Those consumed by Juiblex are obliterated. Scheduled to ship in January 2022.

SAMURAI JACK LOST WORLDS TRADE PAPERBACK

Under the leadership of the benevolent Samurai Jack, society has prospered-everything is in line with his philosophies, his storied stoicism, and of course his hair. This is all news to Jack who doesn't much care for this impostor using his name. But which one is the real Samurai Jack? Then, as Jack travels through lonely mountain roads, he's warned to turn back lest he disturb a haunted village. Of course, Jack's never one to shy from danger, and he continues forward. But maybe some things are better left undisturbed... Scheduled to ship in January 2022.

CHEW TP VOL 04 FLAMBE

These are strange times for Tony Chu, the cibopathic federal agent with the ability to get psychic impressions from the things he eats. Strange writing in extraterrestrial script has appeared in the skies of Planet Earth-and stayed there. People don't know if the end days are upon them or not, but they don't seem terribly concerned about the laws of the FDA, and what was once the most powerful law enforcement agency is rapidly descending into irrelevancy. So where does that leave the FDA best agent, Tony Chu? Presenting the fourth story arc of the Eisner and Harvey Award-winner series, as the twisted and darkly funny comic about cops, crooks, cooks, cannibals and clairvoyants takes a curious cosmic turn. Collects Chew #16-20! Scheduled to ship in January 2022.

GIFT GUIDE

FOR EVERY GAMER

The holidays are fast approaching and it's time to start squirreling away gifts for all the special gamers in your life! We put together some recommendations to help you find the perfect game for each person on your Nice List. Whether they are attuned to all new releases, or just dipping their toes into gaming, there's a game for them! Let us be your elf this holiday season and offer you a helping hand with gift ideas!

EASY TO LEARN

We know not every person loves reading thick, textbook style rulebooks in their spare time. These next few games are perfect for casual gamers who want to ease into a game as easy as possible. With short rulebooks filled with plenty of examples, these games are a breeze to learn but still so fun to play!

Machi Koro 2 (PAN 202113 • $29.95)

This is the standalone sequel to our best-selling family-friendly dice game! More than an updated version, Machi Koro 2 takes all the fan-favorite aspects from the original game and expansions and combines them into a whole new game. Roll dice, activate Building cards with the matching number, then spend your coins on new cards. The first player to build three Landmarks wins the game. You're already ready to play!

Brew (PAN 202108 • $29.95)

Get ready to jump into a whimsical world of druids, potions, and magical creatures with Brew! The strategy in this dice placement, area control game is satisfying, but the rules all make sense together! Each turn, place a die to take an action in the forest or village. If you have ingredients, you can brew them into a potion or drink a potion you've already brewed. Play through two days and two nights, claiming forests as you go by checking who has placed the most dice on each card. Whoever has the most points wins!

DINOSAUR FANS

Who doesn't love dinosaurs?? We've got a few games that are perfect for the person who can name every type of toothy predator, spiky herbivore, or newly identified fossils. Of course, they're also a great fit for fans of a certain film released in 1993...

Dinosaur Island (PAN 201703 • $59.95)

This technicolor worker placement game has players take on the role of Park Manager at a newly-opened dinosaur theme park! Draft dice to gather DNA for cloning dinosaurs, use your scientists to take actions, and make sure your guests stay excited about your attractions! With variable game length, a deck of plot twists that change gameplay, and a whole assortment of Specialists to hire, no two games will be the same!

Dinosaur World (PAN 202106 • $59.95)

We didn't stop there though! Dinosaur World is a standalone sequel to Island, which takes the same premise and expands it into a brand new game. Now players draft workers to take actions. Using workers for actions they're specialized in will grant you extra bonuses! Build attractions, buildings, and dinosaur paddocks — all with unique effects and rewards. Then take a tour of your park by choosing an optimal route for your Jeep each round. But beware of boredom! Keep things fresh and exciting for your guests!

STOCKING STUFFERS

Of course, pocket-sized games make great gifts too! If you need to fill out a stocking or want a gift that doesn't break the bank, our line of card games has something for everyone. Here are a couple of our fan favorite games that are beloved by a wide variety of people. Both titles have sold over 1 million copies worldwide!

The Mind (PAN 201809 • $12.99)

Think you and your friends are on the same page? Think again! In The Mind, you'll need to play cards in numerical order — without communicating with your teammates! Each round, give everyone cards equal to the level you're on (ex: three cards per player for level three), then attempt to play them in order without saying anything out loud. It's harder than it looks, but a ton of fun even when you bust!

The Game (PAN 201820 • $12.95)

Play against The Game itself with this vibrant little card game. Work together to play all the cards in your hand and the deck across four discard piles. Two piles are ascending from 1 to 100, the other two are descending from 100 to 1. On your turn, you must play at least two cards that ascend/descend in numerical order. You'll need to cooperate with your teammates, but you can't reveal what cards are in your hand!

ROB BURMAN HEADS INTO THE CONFLICT ZONE TO BRING YOU THE INSIDE SCOOP ON MANTIC'S UPDATED SCI-FI SKIRMISH GAME

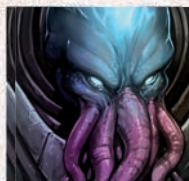

DEADZONE 2 PLAYER STARTER SET

MGE MGDZM103..... $125.00 | Available October 2021!

Heavy drops of rain — coloured a strange, almost green due to the atmosphere of the alien planet — ping off your armour as you turn into the alley. It's dark, unnaturally dark. The pink neon sign of the sushi bar reflects off the shimmering puddles, creating small pockets of brightness. It's almost like a trail leading further into the gloom. The radio crackles into life, causing you to jump. There have been more sightings of weird, human-sized rat creatures breaking into ammo stores around the city. You're starting to wish you had accepted the offer of back-up as you see something emerging from a pile of garbage. Without realizing, you let loose with your Laser Carbine and watch as the pile of junk erupts into a brief burst of flame. In the light, you briefly see a small rat scurrying down a sewer grate and breathe a sigh of relief, unaware that you're being watched by a multitude of other beady, red eyes and they've all got one thing in common... they're hungry.

Welcome to the Deadzone, soldier! Hope you're ready for a bumpy ride because this sci-fi skirmish game recreates the frenetic action of densely packed, urban skirmish zones on distant alien planets. As we approach the release of Third Edition, I thought it would be a good opportunity to take a look at the background of Deadzone and also look at the challenges of creating a new edition.

Deadzone's creation goes way back to 2012 when Mantic first a ruleset created by Jake Thornton. The idea behind the game was for players to create small gangs of elite soldiers that would enter so-called 'Deadzones'. These were typically planets that had been locked down due to a plague outbreak... hang on, this sounds a little familiar. Unfortunately, this plague turned its victim into hidden monsters and mutants that would spread the disease further and further. Once a planet had been locked down, the inhabitants were told to leave, which left a potentially resource rich planet open for the taking.

As a result numerous different factions descend on the planet for their own (potentially nefarious schemes). The heroic Enforcers would attempt to control the outbreak, while space dwarfs known as Forge Fathers would turn up with mining equipment ready to extra whatever they could and courageous Rebs would attempt to scavenge supplies to aid their efforts to bring down the corrupt mega corporations.

The game also integrated with Mantic's innovate Terrain Crate sci-fi scenery — a range of modular, hard plastic buildings that could be customized to build a variety of structures, such as ruined cities, factories and abandoned outposts. The use of buildings helped to create a fully 3D environment that models could move through, ensuring the game felt extremely cinematic and immersive. This was helped by a ground-breaking movement system. Instead of using tape measures, which could get caught on the elaborate scenery, Deadzone uses a grid-based gaming mat and models move between the cubes when fighting. So, if a character has a movement of '1' — it means they can move one cube. It also means they can move up or down one cube too, allowing them to scale buildings and get a better shot. Thanks to this the terrain really feels like part of the game and it ensures that Deadzone is easily one of the fastest and easiest to understand wargames available today.

First Edition was a great success for Mantic — helping it to not only launch the sci-fi scenery but also creating a fantastic line of plastic sci-fi miniatures. So, there was only one thing to do... release a Second Edition. The sequel streamlined the game even further to make it faster to play, as well as introducing two new factions: the insidious Veer-myn (the space rats mentioned in the intro) and the GCPs (human soldiers often left in the Deadzones to fend for themselves). If anything, the sequel was even more successful than the original and quickly spawned a thriving worldwide tournament scene, thanks to a passionate fanbase. After launching in 2016, it was supported by two supplements that helped refine the game further, as well as introducing new factions and units to the Deadzone universe.

However, through various FAQs and errata, plus the Outbreak and Escalation supplements, some portions of the second edition rulebook were out of date after a few years — which wasn't great for new players. We'd often see threads on forums from new players asking what books they needed, plus the fact the starter set contained a rulebook that was mostly out of date wasn't great either.

Initially the plan was to simply collate everything into a new rulebook and call it Deadzone 2.5. We would have had a revised starter set — with an up to date book — and things would have carried on as normal. However, we didn't feel that was giving Deadzone the update it deserved. Instead we thought that creating a new edition (rather than just a refresh of the rules) would give us the opportunity to change some mechanics, streamline elements of the rules and generally give it a glow up (as the cool kids say).

And that's exactly what we have done. Not only have we created a new set of fantastic rules, spread across two rulebooks (core rules and a force lists book), we have used it as opportunity to refresh the entire Deadzone range. This means a new two-player starter set that's absolutely packed with sci-fi terrain (which can be used with any gaming system), revised faction starters to make it even easier (and affordable) to start playing Deadzone and plans for lots of amazing new miniatures. Also, because the sci-fi terrain is such an important part of the game, we've created a host of new accessories to help players create cyberpunk-style cities that will look on any gaming table.

Deadzone promises to be our biggest gaming release since Kings of War: Third Edition and will be available worldwide late October 2022.

PIPELINE: EMERGING MARKETS EXPANSION

CSG PIPE41 $29.95 | Available Now!

Pipeline was Capstone Game's first standalone game in 2019, and has been a great success since then! After being nominated for multiple awards, Pipeline became an instant hit in our catalog. With the success of Pipeline, Capstone Games has announced Pipeline: Emerging Markets, the first expansion for the game!

In Pipeline: Emerging Markets, the success of your company is opening up new markets full of opportunities! With your expertise and logistical innovations over the last 3 years, the refinement requirements of this new era are even more demanding. With the emergence of new markets, new technologies and innovations have become available for your business to utilize. Additionally, these emerging markets have brought about new ways of evaluating your business. Will you take advantage of the new ways to exploit the markets or will your business fall to ruin in this ever changing world?

What is your high score with Pipeline vs with some of the modules from Emerging Markets? What is your lowest score?

2k+. Only the increasing refinement requirements make it harder. The other modules allow for new paths to exploit. I almost always play using a handicap so I'd imagine there are folks out there who have scored more. My lowest was 300-400s maybe? We used the flippable requirement tokens that increase each year and set them as 7,6,5 for all colors at the start of the game. In the original game I'm sure I've done worse. Clay did negative.

Why a modular expansion?

We are slowly reintroducing mechanisms from the original design.

Do you have a suggestion for a combination of the markets for great gameplay?

I always just randomize. You can end up with very asymmetric markets, which I enjoy.

What Upgrade do you think is the hardest to play well with and why?

Refined Markets 2. I tend not to overextend myself so typically I don't run into issues with upgrades. They can all cause problems if you do but the long term benefit ones will hurt you more.

What is your favorite module from the upcoming Emerging Markets expansion and why?

The markets. It makes you have to really plan out your action path.

You're taking the first turn in a new game of Pipeline – What factors on the game board are you looking at to help decide which action you take and what do those factors mean to you?

Depends where I am in turn order. If I'm early, I play conservatively. If late, I look for weaknesses my opponents opened themselves up to with their initial moves and look to punish them.

What type of Pipeline network do you find yourself usually building: a square-shape where different lines are interwoven together; a rectangular-shape where you have one or two lines that are forever long; the long & straight-line network focusing on one colored line to maximize profit?

Always dense at first and then it gets looser towards the end when I'm getting large quantities of tiles but not necessarily high quality.

Which Valuation Card, if it is in play in the game, will you ALWAYS go for?

Orders rescore. It's pretty hard to ignore that if it's in the game. And making sure you control turn order so you can snag an order right ahead of your opponent can decide the game.

Pipeline: Emerging Markets will be available at your FLGS this Fall! Look out for the base game and the expansion this November!

With your engines offline and only your tractor and repulsor beams to propel you through space, can you use these new laws of gravity — and other players — to catapult to safety?

On top of the innovative mechanics you know and love, Gravwell 2nd Edition ups the game's player count to 6, adds unique powers for every ship, and features dynamic new ship models for a stellar table presence.

DECK THE HALLS

In the Transformers Deck-Building Game (RGS 02236, $45.00), you'll take on the role of one of the mighty Autobots, exploring the Matrix and changing between your different modes as you gain allies, find relics, and acquire new tech to gear up for battle. Choose to play competitively against other players or as a solo or cooperative experience. Will you stop the Decepticons from their evil schemes before it's too late?

The Transformers Deck-Building Game Core Set includes everything you need to play, but the battle is far from over — look out for playable Decepticons to expand your game in the future!

AVAST YE MERRY GENTLEMEN

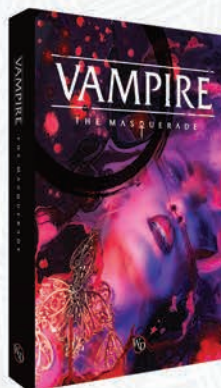

Ahoy, mateys! If swashbuckling adventure be your holiday tradition, look no further than Dead Men Tell No Tales (RGS 02283, $50.00). Working together as a pirate crew, players board Skelit's Revenge — the most feared ship on the high seas — and attempt to plunder the massive treasure trove Captain Fromm and his skeleton crew have so kindly collected for you. Can you battle fire, foe, and your own fatigue to win a pirate's most coveted prize: booty?

When you've played one way, don't forget to change the ship's layout, try a new character, or choose a variant to increase the difficulty and variety in your games of Dead Men Tell No Tales! Plus, this latest printing of the beloved cooperative swashbuckling game includes 7 pirate miniatures previously sold separately.

SEASON OF NIGHT

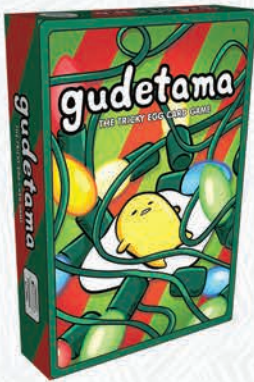

What better way to spend the longest, darkest night of the year than with your own coterie of vampires? In Vampire: The Masquerade 5th Edition Roleplaying Game, players create stories of survival, supremacy, and their own fading humanity, all while suffering the Hunger that haunts all of the kindred.

All you need to get started is the Vampire: The Masquerade 5th Edition Core Rulebook (RGS 09382, $55.00), but enterprising Storytellers will appreciate the Storyteller's Screen & Toolkit for its scene-setting table presence, useful reference tables, and extra tools and advice on creating and running a Vampire: The Masquerade chronicles. Additional sourcebooks including Anarch and Camarilla are available now, with more on the way!

AN EGG-CELLENT STOCKING STUFFER

Winter is the perfect time for cozying up and taking it easy, lazy egg style! Gudetama: The Tricky Egg Card Game Holiday Edition (RGS 00971, $15.99) is a trick-taking game for 2–7 players featuring festive new art from the graphic novels published by Oni Press. In true Gudetama fashion, players compete to avoid taking the final trick each round, aiming to have the fewest points at the end of the game.

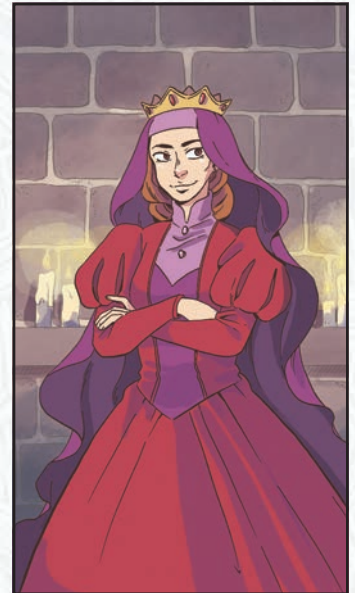

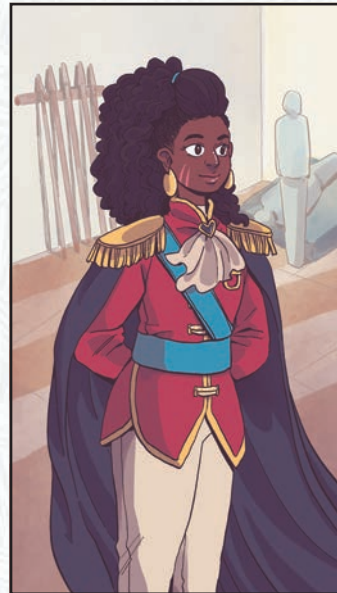

So, chill out, pour a bit of eggnog, and gather 'round the table for a holiday egg-stravaganza! Will you win the title of laziest egg?

MISSIVES & MISTLETOE

Love — it's what the holidays are all about! Based on the award-winning card game by Seiji Kanai, Love Letter Princess Princess Ever After tasks you with finding the right allies to deliver your love letter and win the favor of Princess Isadora.

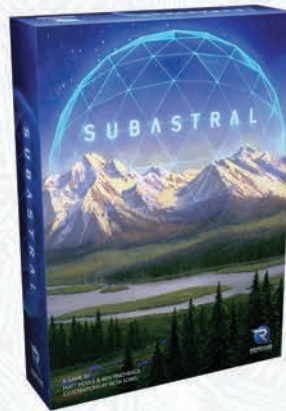

Set in the enchanting world of Kay O'Neill's Princess Princess Ever After (RGS 02250, $21.99), the game features a charming cast of characters from the nearly invincible Ogre to the lightning-fast Unicorn, all standing at the ready to deliver your missive. Can you win Princess Isadora's heart in this quick game of risk and deduction?

A WINTER WONDERLAND

Ah, the beauty of winter! Celebrate the unrivaled beauty of the natural world in Subastral (RGS 02196, $21.99), a new card game from designers Matt Riddle and Ben Pinchback (Stellar, Fleet: The Dice Game) featuring stunning illustrations by Beth Sobel. Players take on the roles of naturalists, collecting notes and conducting research on the diverse biomes of Planet Earth through a combination of hand management and unique set collection.

As scientists, you will be rewarded for research that is both deep and diverse — will your work stand out amongst your peers?

EPISODE #41: MINIATURE CAMOUFLAGE

Welcome to the latest “episode” of Painting Happy Lil Minis in Game Trade Magazine. Each month, Dave will provide us with a look at a particular painting technique, how to apply that technique to a particular color, and maybe even an additional technique to take your paintjobs to the next level.

You can also see Dave painting live each week on our Game Trade Media Facebook page – Thursdays evenings at 7pm EST. Dave is joined by Gretchen Settle, and occasionally by other painters who each bring great painting advice and their own style to the table.

WHAT’S THE PURPOSE OF CAMOUFLAGE?

Camouflage is something that has existed in nature for millenia, and it’s purpose has always been to conceal or deceive the true appearance of something, either for defensive or predatory purposes. When it comes to its use in modern warfare (well, from the early 20th-Century onwards), it has had the same purpose.

Over the last century or so, military organizations have used various vehicular paint schemes and uniform patterns to break up the outline of tanks and infantry so as to confuse the enemy and gain an advantage, possibly only a split second advantage at that, but something that will help them attack first, or withdraw to a safer position.

The general idea, in real life, is to blend in with the surroundings. When we apply camouflage schemes to our miniatures, however, we have a different goal. We don’t really want to have them blend in to the background, or they’d get lost on the gaming table. We are simply concerned with making them look like they could blend in, or fool the eyes of our miniature opposition.

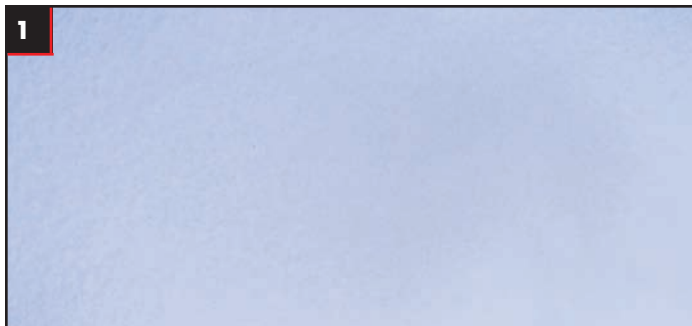

To achieve this, we can choose camouflage schemes that match historical records (particularly when painting for historical games) like these three tanks of World War II, or we can create our own schemes. The main idea still stands, we should choose colours and shapes that will help blend in to our surroundings. The two painted examples opposite show organic shapes and natural colors of farm/woodlands and the square/manmade colors and shapes of an urban environment.

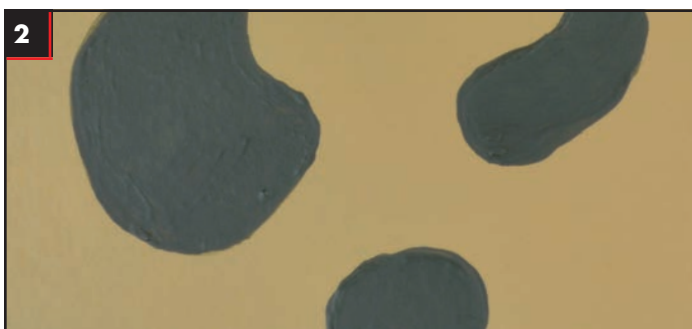

These three tanks from Warlord Games’ Bolt Action range are (top to bottom) an Italian Semovente 75/18, a Japanese Type 97 Ch-Ha ShinHo To, and a French Somua S35.

SCI-FI SETTINGS AND CAMOUFLAGE

When your environment exists on the near or far future, or on an alien world, you can start to go crazy with your camouflage schemes, but the old adages still apply. Using colors and shapes that connect to your surroundings are important to achieving that camouflaged look. This Leman Russ Battle Tank from Games Workshop's Warhammer 40,000 range lurks through a dense, green jungle with jagged foliage.

Dave Taylor first discovered painting miniatures for tabletop wargames in 1991. Since then he has painted over 10,000 minis of all shapes, sizes, and genres. He now primarily paints miniatures for tabletop wargames, and has recently really enjoyed bringing board game miniatures to life

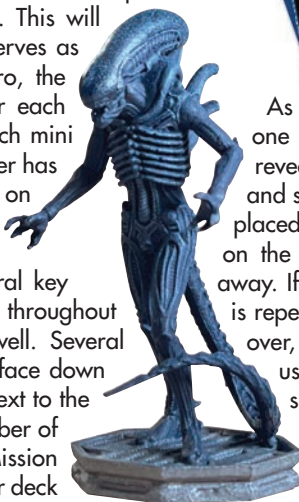

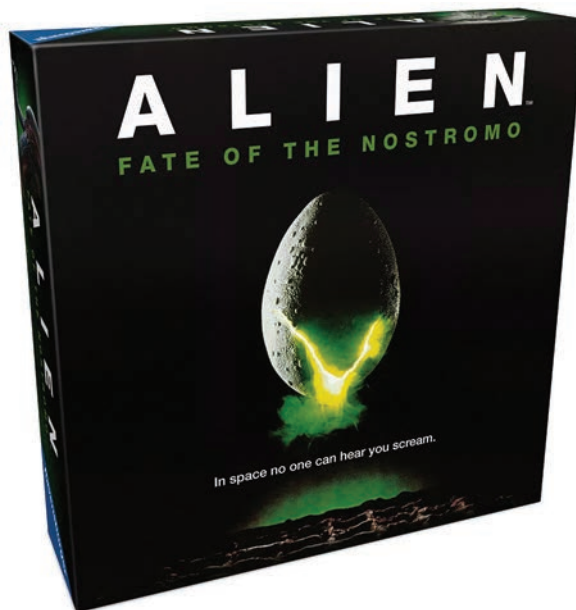

ALIEN: FATE OF THE NOSTROMO (RVN 60001932)

From Ravensburger, reviewed by Brian Herman

|---|---|
|  10 & Up |  1 – 5 Players |
|  45 – 60 Minutes |  PI |

When I think of the first Alien movie, I don't think of the famous scene in the galley; the Xenomorph bursting forth from a crew member's chest. I think of flashes of moments that invoke such suspense. The electronic clicking of the motion tracker. A hiss of steam from a vent. The slow snarl of the Alien as it stalks the crew carefully, quietly. The hesitation around every corner. Alien is a horror/suspense movie, not action/adventure. The adaptation from Ravensburger titled Alien: Fate of the Nostromo is a cooperative game for 1-5 players that captures the feel of this suspense perfectly as the crew works together to fend of the Xenomorph and save the ship.

Upon unpacking the box, you get your first jump scare of the experience: printed on the back of the game board is the hissing face of Jonesy the cat printed larger than life and with such detail you can almost hear him. Unfolding the game board reveals a rendering of the U.S.S. Nostromo and a "Crew Morale" track where a Xenomorph standee is placed based on the number of players. This will track the crew's morale throughout the game and serves as a communal life tracker. If the counter reaches zero, the crew has lost. Color coded minis and placards for each crew member are distributed to each player and each mini starts the game in the Galley space. Each crew member has a set number of actions and a special ability based on their role on the ship. The Alien mini is placed in the "Hive" space, ready to stalk the crew. A pile of scrap tokens is placed near the gameboard and in several key locations, these will be used to construct various items throughout the game that are placed next to the board as well. Several "Concealed" tokens that look like doors are placed face down in several locations as well with the rest face down next to the board. A number of objective cards equal to the number of players +1 are laid out along the board and a Final Mission card is placed facedown as well. Finally, the Encounter deck is shuffled and placed within reach of all players.

As a player moves from room to room, they may encounter one of the "Concealed" tokens. If so, it is flipped over and revealed to all players. If it's blank, it is returned to the pile and shuffled in. If it shows the Alien, however, the Alien mini is placed in the character's space, the crew loses the moral listed on the token and the player must immediately move 3 room away. If they encounter another "Concealed" token, this process is repeated until a clear room is found. When a player's turn is over, they reveal the top card of the "Encounter" deck, which usually will move the Alien through the ship dropping more scrap and "Concealed" tokens throughout the ship. One thing I've noticed is while playing, a hush seems to fall over the table collectively as a "Concealed" token is encountered or an Encounter card is revealed, everyone tensing for the next moment.

As with all Ravensburger games, production values are first and foremost. The minis, cards, and various components are made of incredibly resilient stock and will hold up from game to game. The gameplay captures perfectly the intellectual property on which it is based, and due to the different objective and final mission cards, no two games are alike. All in all, if you're a fan of the genre or of cooperative games in general, I would certainly recommend giving Alien: Fate of the Nostromo a look. Just be wary for what's around the next corner.

©20TH CENTURY STUDIOS

Gameplay at a high level consists of each player moving through the ship to complete objective cards while avoiding contact with the Alien. This can mean bringing certain equipment to particular rooms or dropping an item somewhere else. Once all the objective cards have been completed, the Final Mission card is revealed which has its own special set of circumstances for the players to either win or lose. On each player's turn they can take a number of actions as indicated on their character placard. These can include moving between rooms and corridors, picking up scrap tokens, crafting equipment, trading with other players, or using the character's special action.

Brian Herman has over 30 years experience playing games, is a father of two, and the Sorting Hat would have difficulty placing him between Ravenclaw and Slytherin. His favorite games include AEG's Smash-Up, WizKid's HeroClix line, as well as classics like Settlers of Catan and Munchkin.

CORROSION

You stand in the center of your factory, the sweet sounds of metal clattering and engines rattling are warming your entrepreneurial heart. Your goal is to build diversified scoring and production engines in order to outlive the other factory owners. However, in the steam-filled air, your biggest enemy is time, because most machines rust away quickly. So you are well advised to also produce rustproof chrome gears and invest in powerful chrome machines.

Corrosion is a temporary engine builder where you must think carefully about when to deploy your engineers and when to turn your corrosion wheel. Whoever manages this best and scores the most points wins the game!

JUICY FRUITS (CSG JF101)

From Capstone Games, reviewed by Thomas Riccardi

|--|---|
|  8 & Up |  1 – 4 Players |
|  30 Minutes |  $39.95 |

People have dreamed about owning their own slice of paradise and you have actually fulfilled this dream! You own a small island and you make your living by growing fruits that are sought after by nearby ships. Will your island flourish with the fruits of your labor, or will you be beaten by the competition? This is the subject of the latest from Capstone Games — Juicy Fruits.

First, there is a lot of great content in this box: there are four island boards along with a business and score board. Tokens are used for the collection of fruit, businesses, large venues and ship tokens to fulfill orders. Fruits, ice cream, and milkshake markers along with two cloth bags and postcards round out the contents of the game. The game can either be played with two to four players or solo and setup starts by placing the score board and business board next to each other in the middle of the table. Next, shuffle the 24 business tokens face down and depending on how many people are playing, place them into the waiting spaces on the board. Ice cream markers are then sorted by matching values and the license marker is put on the license track according to the number of players in the game.

Each player takes an island board, a postcard, a player disc corresponding to the postcard color and shuffles five of the collector tokens that match their postcard and place one down each on the five island spaces with a pond and then turn these tokens face up. Next the boat tokens get put into two cloth bags; five boat tokens from one bag and six from the other bag are then placed at locations as shown on the island boards. Last, but not least, the player who most recently ate fruit becomes the starting player and flips their postcard face down indicating this.

Juicy Fruits can be played a variety of ways either with or without the juice factory add-on (in fact it is recommended for new players to leave that out for the first few games). Playing the game is broken down into two steps:

Step 1: Move one of your collector tokens to gain fruit. The collector tokens can be moved in a straight line and with each space you gain a fruit of that type. For example, if you have a collector token of a banana and you move it three spaces you gain three bananas.

You can also choose to move one of your mobile business tokens if you have any and use their special abilities. These range from the advanced collector tokens that allow you to claim either type of fruit depicted on the token. Ice cream cart tokens can make either ice cream or milkshakes by using the corresponding fruits from your reserve. This is a very quick way to rack up points, so it is key to be on the lookout for these businesses and claim them before your opponent does.

Step 2: At this point you can either supply one of your ships by matching the order on it and claiming the points on the card, or you can also claim one of the businesses that are available simply by matching the fruits on the card and placing your new business on one of the free island spaces on your board.

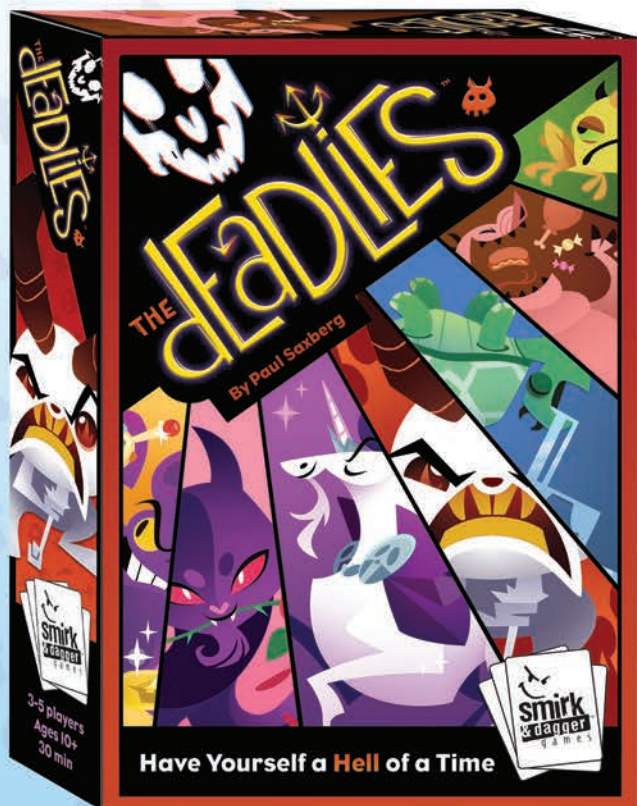

The juice factory adds increased depth to the game by adding another step as you advance your factory discs by up to one arrow each. This is on the other side of the scoreboard and you will use the fruit cost to advance your token one space on the juice factory. This is also a great way to rack up points especially if you have the lemonade stand as this is also a way to generate resources for that business.

Juicy Fruits can also be played solo and there are rules to play this game against other fruits that act as your opponent. You can choose the fit fruit, fair fruit, fast fruit, and full fruit which has different rules than the others. There is a boat that goes around a dock and if you manage to catch up to that boat you will be able to add the points to your total.

Juicy Fruits is a fun and fast paced game that is very easy to learn and almost impossible to master. If you love playing either games with your friends or solo, then you need to give this a try. For more information on this and other games head over to capstone-games.com and get ready to run a successful island business.
